The three-way partnership between faculty, parents and students forms the basis of our school culture. We work hard at building relationships, and we believe that this is what makes our school unique.

At Crescent every effort is made to make new students and their families feel welcome. Before long your son will become part of a large and caring extended family. All three schools, Lower, Middle and Upper, are located in the same facility which allows the boys to integrate and share mentoring and leadership roles across all ages and grades. At the same time, each School observes the integrity of an age-appropriate environment where teachers can understand each boy encouraging him to discover his own unique talents and abilities.

Parents are always welcome at Crescent. We encourage and support active participation through many social and educational opportunities. Additionally, many parents volunteer in our vibrant and energetic parent associations – the Guild and the Crescent Family Committee.
